

KING'S ROAD

If you walk down the King's Road today, you'll be sure of a big surprise! Until 30th August, enjoy a wealth of free public art from Kensington and Chelsea Art Week, including sculptures and captivating window displays. You may also bump into an animal or two as our free public art trail 'Kids Go Wild' roams the King's Road, featuring astonishing bronze animal sculptures created by British and Australian artists, Gillie and Marc. Why not wander up Sloane Street and flip this map over, to discover the rest of the 'Kids Go Wild' art trail and stunning artworks by Simone Brewster in Hooper's Court.
